"However, they have specific ideas about what students and colleges need to do to increase value - principally, to partner with business to create more practical in- college experiences, such as internships," said Dr. Greer. "This study gives our citizens, and policy makers, significant positive feedback and hope for the future of college opportunity in the Garden State. It confirms prior Stockton research, and recent national studies by Pew, Gallup and others, that citizens view college opportunity as key to individual prosperity. And it gives us a deeper understanding of what needs to be done to make college more valuable in serving individual and state needs," explained Dr. Greer.
